You may not post—as yourself or under the guise of a false name or identity—about products and services in which you have a financial interest unless you disclose your interest and the content is relevant and useful to Site users in the context in which it is posted. Likewise, you may not post negative information about any competitor or competitor’s products and services without first disclosing your business interest. You may not have another person post information that is financially beneficial to you or detrimental to your competitors. ArtsInteractive may restrict or terminate access to the Site—without refund—to users who commit such abuses.

6. Links or Pointers to Other Sites

ArtsInteractive makes no representations whatsoever about any other website that you may access through the Site. When you access a non-ArtsInteractive website, you understand that it is independent from ArtsInteractive, and that we have no control over the content on that website. It is up to you to take precautions to ensure that whatever you select for your use or download is free of such items as viruses, worms, trojan horses, and other items of a destructive nature.

In some cases, ArtsInteractive may make recommendations about products and services provided by third parties. It is your responsibility to assess any third-party product or service and determine if it meets your needs, independent of our recommendation.

7. Choice of Law and Venue

These Terms and Conditions are entered into in the State of California and shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of California, exclusive of its choice of law rules.
